About 250 girls yesterday afterno participated in the first big rally held local Girl Scout organization. it was held near the huge flagstaff in Zoological Park, and was witnessed by the officers of the national Girl Scout organization, delegates who attended the convention held in this city during the past three days and scores of other spectators.

Several small rables have been held by Girl Scouts of Washington, but yesterday was the first time all of the scouts gathered together. About thirty patrols were represented.

raily differed from the gathering of the kind held each year by the Boy Scout organization in that there were no contests and the program was devoted exclusively to demonstrations of the various useful activities taught Girl Scouts. The rally started at 1 o'clock, on scheduled time. All of the scouts were proud of the fact that there was no de-lay in starting for "Be prompt" is al-most as important to a Girl Scout as "Be prepared." They are taught prompt-ness at their patrol meetings.

Led by Boys' Music.

Led by the drum and bugle corps of the local Boy Scout organization the 250 or more girls marched before Mrs. Juliette Gordon Low, founder of the Girl Scout movement in this country and president of the newly formed natoinal president of the newly formed natomal Girl Scout organization, and other Girl Scout officers. All but a few of the girls were attired in their brown khaki suits and wore their regulation khaki hats. Some of the girls were dressed in white to represent trained nurses. These girls demonstrated first aid to the injured later on in the program.

After the review the scouts formed in their respective patrols and demonstrated various Girl Scout activities, which in many respects are the same as those of Boy Scouts, and which included semaphore signaling, setting up exercises and ambulance drills.

They demonstrated how first aid treatment should be applied to various injuries. Some bandaged arms, while others tied up heads in yards of cotton gauze. Other scouts made improvised splints and showed how broken arms and legs should be cared for until expert 'medical assistance can be had.

and legs should be cared for until ex-pert 'medical assistance can be had.

Tents were pitched, a campfire lighted and cooking demonstrated. One stunt was a morning scene in camp and showed the girls coming out of their tents, arranging their blankets and making the camp look shipshape.

"Went Off" Without a Hitch.

All the demonstrations "went off ithout a hitch, although it was the first time so many Girl Scouts had ever assembled in this city. The evenness with which the various numbers were presented indicated the thorough training the girls had received in their patrols. The success of the rally was largely due to the work of Mrs. F. P. Wilcox, one of the Girl Scout captains, and Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, who was elected a vice president of the national organization yesterday. Miss Cora Neal, national secretary of the Girl Scout organization, also took an active part in arranging the program.

ganization, also took an active part in arranging the program.

One of the prettlest scenes was a tableau representing "Justice, Peace and Victory." The field was cleared and three scouts dressed in white marched three scouts dressed in white marched into the open. One carried a set of scales and represented "Justice"; "Victory" carried a wreath of laurel leaves, and "Peace" carried an American flag and had another draped over her shoulders.

Efficiency Badges Presented.

The rally was concluded by the presentation of efficiency badges to scouts who had recently passed the various Girl Scout tests. They were pleted by the executive committee, of presented by Mrs. Low, the national pleted by the executive committee, of which J. Clinton Hiatt is chairman. MILITARY RESERVE IS BEING BUILT UP

Straight-Shooting Body Formation by National Rifle Association.

438 ORGANIZED CLUBS HAVE 16,628 MEMBERS

Many Fraternal and Patriotic Societies Have Teams, War Department Board Announces.

A straight-shooting military reserve is being built up in the United States by the National Rifle Association of America, according to a statement given out last night by the national board for the promotion of rifle practice. War Department, with offices in the Woodward building. While the rifle association recognizes the need for up-building an army reserve in this coup-building an army reserve in this coupis being built up in the United States ouilding an army reserve in this coun ry, and will urge upon Congress legisation for this purpose, its officers declare that through the establishment of ifle clubs throughout the United States much is being done to provide an effi-cient reserve. They contend that ability to handle a rifle and to shoot straight comprise 80 per cent of the requisites of an efficient soldier.

A great impetus to the establishment of rifle clubs was given by the enactment of legislation at the last session of Congress authorizing the free issue of Krag rifles, the property of the War Department, and ammunition to rifle clubs, under rules and regulations approved by the Secretary of War.

The Secretary of War placed the organization of the clubs and distribution of the rifles in the hands of the National Rifle Association, which had an organization in every state and was in close touch with the class of citizens whom it was desired to reach.

Many Are Former Soldiers.

The military feature of this movenent, and one that will add considerrifle shooting, but the statistics show that about 60 per cent of the members of these clubs are former army men and national guardsmen, so that they are not only keeping up their training in rifle shooting, but are alread, trained in other necessary attributes of a soldier. Officials of the association said that Congress could secure an efficantax reserve for the regular service and one that would be along the lines that have proved so efficient in Switzerland if it would make the rifle club movement really broad and national in its scope by appropriations for the building of rifle ranges throughout the country and the purchase of target supplies and other paraphernalia for the carrying on of rifle training among citizens.

Since the free issue of rifles and ammunition was authorized the National Rifle Association has organized 438 clubs. rifle shooting, but the statistics show Rifle Association has organized 438 clubs. These clubs are not confined to

FOR COLLEGE ENTRANCE.

District Board to Hold Examinations the Coming Week.

Riffe Association has organized any particular locality, but reach from Maine to California. Among the most successful clubs are those organized in the west, it is said, where there are better facilities for acquiring ranges. A great many of these clubs have been organized in fraternal and patriotic societies. At the present time the 438 clubs organized and affiliated with the National Riffe Association have a membership of 16,628.

One feature of this movement has been the organization of numerous clubs by the employes of large industrial corporations. In some cases the employers themselves have donated the land and assisted in the construction of the ranges. Recently rifte clubs have been organized in the United Shoe Machinery Company, the Springfield Telephone Company, the Goodyear Rubber Company, the Goodyear Rubber Company, the General Electric Company, and several others.
